In consequence of the absence of the pastor, the night meetings announced for this week at the Methodist Church haue been postponed.

Messrs. C. E. Watson John D. Verner and H. D. A. Blemann have been appointed Commissioners of Election for Oconee County. The old Commissioners have been removed.

The farmers have had a beautiful spell of weather for eaving fodder, and in the past eight days we expect many thousand bundles bave been safely housed.

The peope should save as much hay as possible, for no one should forget that for several years roughness has been both scarce and costly in the spring.

The first bale of new cotton was sold at Walhalla on the 12th instant by Mr. J. W. Hansard to Messrs. J. P. Mickler & Co. at 01 cents per pound:

We regret to announce the death of Joseph Richey, son of our townsman John Richey, on Friday last. Little Joe had his leg severely injured by a fall which caused his death.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather the Bible reading at the Methodist Church on Monday night of last week had to be postponed. It will take place at the Methodist Church on pext Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when it is hoped a large audience will be in attendance. Should this service be well re coived it is the intention of the Young Men's Christian Association to hold them weekly during the fall. Everybody is invited to the reading next Sabbath, young and old, male and female. The exercises will be varied and of unusual interest to all who love the "sweet story of old." Rev. J. J. Neville, pastor of the church, will conduct the exercises. All who attend are requested to bring a Bible or Tostament with them.

The debate at Bethel came off but Fiday night. A few turned out, notwithstanding the busy fodder time. After some earnest speeches, President Sanders decided in favor of "Washington."

Revs. F. M. Morgan and C. D. Mann preached at South Union last Saturday and Sunday with much zeal and earnestness. One joined on Sunday and the meeting was continued till Monday; but the rain coming on, hindered a farther continuance.

meeting at Oakway Lodge last Saturday evening. The question "should or would it be best for the usury law to be placed upon the statutes of the State." is to be discussed at Bethel Friday night, the 21st instant. Hope we will have a good turn out of people and debaters. As little as many people think of these debates, much is to be learned at them. One man can be able to get the ideas of all that speak. Therefore, let us lay aside that selfishness that we know enough and let us use every effort in sur reach to obtain know. ledge; for after we have done all we can we are ignorant enough then to be unfit to approach a Solomon or listen to a wise man.

Rev. H. N. Hays was in attendance at Bethel lust Saturday and Sunday and has preached so much at protracted meetings that he is worn out nearly. He is a faithful preacher, liberal and social to other denominations. That selfish denominational style peculiar to many proachers he is entirely clear of; feels himself as much at home at one Christian's house as at another's of a different sect. Sectarianism is a different thing from denominationalism. 0.0

Rev. John Leland Kennedy.

Born December 12th, 1801, at Duncan's Creek, Laurens County, South Carolina. Received his preparatory education mainly under the exertions of his father, Rev. John B. Kennedy. Entered the University of Georgia at Athens in 1822. At the expiration of his first year in this institution, he took a dismissal to the South Carolina College. where he remained two years and graduated in 1825 in a class of unusual distinction. Among his class mates were such honored names as Judge T. J. Withers, Judge T N. Dawkins, Bishop Stephen Elliet and Randell Hunt. The second year after graduating he went to Sumter County to study law with Judge Waites, supporting himself in the meanwhile by teaching school. He had made a profession of faith in Christ before entering College, but it was not until this year in Sum ter, that he was brought by a deeper religious experience to satisfactory evidence and a omfortable hopelof conversion. 'He became deeply impressed at this time with the convic tion that it was his duty to preach the gospel and accordingly he abandoned the study of law and put bimself under the care of South Carolina Pre-bytery at the fall meeting of 1827 at Greenville Church, in Abbeville County. He began at once the study of The ology under the direction of Rev. Michael Dickson, and continued to study and teach until the fall of 1820, when he was liceused to preach at Dancan's Creek, where he was born and baptised, and from which church he received at the time of his licensure an earnest call to preach to them a part of his time. He began preaching to several vacant churches in Spartanburg and Laurens Counties. He was married November 12th, 1829, to Jane Hervey Chamblin, then a member of Nazareth Church in Spartanburg County from which marriage were born eight son: and four daughters. He was ordered by South Carolina. Pres very in fall of 1830 South Carotina Pres viery in tall of 1850. The principal actors in this solemn servier were Rev. Moses Weddel and Dr. Wm. II. Barr. One year after, in the fall of 1831 at the suggestion of Dr. Waddel, he went to Lincolnton Ga., to preach to three churches and take charge of the school at that place He remained bere two years, and then removed to Pendleton S. C. to take charge of boring sen 1 at that there 1 . 1836 begin to breach at Carmel Connels ne-ho the round · di. T

This position he was induced to accept by the urgent and persistent solicita tions of the Trustees, and removed to Williamston, continuing still to preach at Carmel one-half of his time, In August, 1859, he was united in marriage to Mrs. E. D. Simpson About the last of 1864 he was again solicited by the Carmel community to return to Thal inn Academy. He yielded to this plea, moved to his old home and there remained till 1870, when he was pressed to go to Pendleton to take charge of the Male Academy at that place. He remained at Pendleton two years and con tinued to preach as hitherto one-half time at Carmel and one-quarter at Williamston At the close of 1871 his failing strengh compelled him to quit preaching. Early in 1872, he re moved to Williamston and enjoyed his first year's rest from teaching since 1826. He taught again at Belton in 1873 and at Williamston in 1874; and this was his last year of teaching.

During all this time, from his first coming to Carmel in 1835 till the l. st of 1876, he was preaching one-half of his time to the Carmel people, except the year he was at Ogiethorpe; his other Sabbaths were almost altogether given to missionary work at points ranging from ten to thirty miles distant from his home. From 1859 till the year of his death he preached once a month at Williamston.

As a preacher his powers were never as fully developed, nor his influence as widely felt, as would have been if he had given his undivided time and strength to the exclusive work of the ministry. The results of his labors are not to be measured by the narrow bounds of a single congregation. The fruits of his forty-seven years of toil are scattered all over our Southern country. His pupils, coming from all parts of South Carolina, and some from other States, to the number of about seventy-five a year for nearly half a century of successive years, were his pastoral These were the objects of his faithful care, not only in the matter of mental culture, but also of his affectionate concern to the matter of eternal salvation. The fervent prayers and earnest appeals which were heard day after day in the opening exereises of school room during all these years, are doubtless still alive in the memory of hundreds whose influence is now felt in various parts of our Southern land. The subject of this sketch was a Christian educator in the highest sense of the term He taught not only from religious motives and with Christian fidelity, but also with constant of liberal education in the interests of reli-gion. Whether by thus combining the labors quence. In the school roam, he was thoroughly master of what he taught, and secured absolute submission, not by the austerities of tyrant, but by the firmness, fairness and affection of a parent. His discipline, whilst it awed into obedience, also wooed into loving esteem. In his family, he was the devoted husband and the fond father. In social life, ne was the Christian gentleman and the ardent friend. A more self-sacrifising character never adorned an earthly home. With none was it ever more true, that a pleasure shared was a pleasure doubled.

It was sad to loving hearts to be made to see by the evidences of failing mind and hody, that his parthly work work was done that oody, that his earthly work was done-that nothing was le. him for the last two or three years of his life but to stand and wait. His last three months on earth were months of suffering; for two weeks before his death he was confined to his hed. Feeling that the time of his departure had come, he prayed to God, if such were consistent with His will, to take him to his heavenly home. The week before his death he arranged for his own burial as calmly as he would have attended to an ordinary transaction. And when the time had fully come, surrounded by true and trusted friends, he breathed away his life, as quietly as if he had only slept, August 19th, 1877, aged seventy-five years, eight months and seven days.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fover and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malari-ous, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

ous, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

This is a compound remedy, prepared with scientific skill from vegetable ingredients, which rarely falls to cure the severest cases of Chills and Fover and the concomitant disorders. Such a remedy the necessities of the people in malarious districts demand. Its great superiority over any other medicine yet discovered for the cure of Intermittents is, that it contains no quinine or mineral, and those who take it are free from danger of quinism or any injurious effects, and are as healthy after using it as before. It has been extensively employed during the last thirty years in the treatment of these distressing disorders, and so unvarying has been its success that whas gained the reputation of being infailible. It can, therefore, be safely recommended as a sure remedy and specific for the Fever and as a sure remedy and specific for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South. It counteracts the miasmatic poison in the blood, and frees the system from its influence, so that fever and ague, shakes or chills, once broken up by it, do not return until the disease is again contracted.

The great variety of disorders which arise from the irritation of this poison, such as Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blinds Rheumatism, Gont, Headache, Blindness, Tootinache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitation, Spienic Affections, Hystorics, Pain in the Bowels, Colic, Paralysis, and derangoof the Stomach, all of which become intermittent or periodical, have no speedier remedy than Aven's Agus Cune, which cures them all alike, and projects the system from future attacks. As a preventive, it is of immense service in those communities where Feyer and Agus preventies. communities where Fever and Ague prevails, as it stays the development of the disease if taken on the distance of the premonitory symptoms. Travellers and temporary residents are thus enabled to defy these disorders, and few will ever suffer if they avail themselves of the protection this remedy affords.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity, it is an excellent remedy; it stimulates this organ into healthy activity, and produces many remarkable cures where other medicines fall.
